

Stratified and subsurface acidity

Acidity is a severe soil degradation problem that can greatly reduce the productive potential of crops and pastures by stunting root growth, limiting nutrient availability and releasing toxic amounts of aluminium into the soil solution. The presence (including location in the profile) and severity of acid soils can be determined by conducting a pH test (pH in water). Add links here

